

ULSTER TROUBLE IS STILL FEARED

Nothing Short of Unionist Amend- ments Will Satisfy the Ulsterites

London, July 14.—The House of Lords today passed the third reading of the bill to amend the Irish home rule bill and sent it to the House of Commons for consideration.

In its closing stage in the upper House the Marquis of Crewe, Liberal leader, in the debate on the bill indirectly promised that the attainment of an agreement in regard to the elimination of the time limit, which the counties of Ulster were alleged to vote on the question of their exclusion for a period of six years from the operation of the home rule bill, could not prove difficult. He said, however, that the area of the portion of Ireland to be excluded had been so greatly enlarged by the Unionists that it would be a vexed and critical question.

The Marquis of Lansdowne, the Unionist leader, reiterated that nothing short of the Unionist amendment could avert the imminent peril that was threatening. He said that was his explanation of the demand for the total exclusion of the province of Ulster, and he complained that the agreement had given the Unionists no assistance whatever in the task of averting Civil war.

Were Boisterous.

London, July 14.—The Daily Mail Belfast correspondent thus describes the march of 100,000 to Drumbragh.

"Battling and roaring like Maxim guns, the drums of Ulster today proclaimed the victory of the Boyne. Recall those drums were not thumped with drum sticks in single heavy notes; they were flogged with loaded canes welded by men with wrists of steel and the noise was the noise of maxim guns. With boiler riveters working in chorus for five hours along five Irish miles, the drums delivered their mighty message to Ulster's defiance to the world."

Receipts Wheat Shipments.

Chicago, July 15.—Twenty rialroads from the South and middle west pour at a continuous stream of grain into Chicago today, betting a new record for a single day. Wheat receipts here at a total of 1,163 cars arriving in 1,350,000 bushels were received, approximately $1,000,000 will be paid the farmers for the day's shipment.

The enormous receipts exerted an influence on the market, however, a decided increase in price being recorded instead of the decline which might have been expected to follow the new record.
